NEWS FROM THE SUBURBS.

A NARROW ESCAPE AT A CROSSING. Seven passengers and the driver of a horse-car or the Elizabeth N. J., street railway had a thrilling experience on Sunday night on the East Jerstyst. crossing of the Long Branch Railroad. When the car drew near the crossing a freight train was passing and the gates were lowered. When the train had passed the street-car started to cross the tracks, and was half way over when the driver discovered at the same instant that another train was bearing down upon him and that the gate just in front could not be opened despite the frantic efforts of the gateman. The driver lashed his horse, which in its terrman. The driver lashed his horse, which in its ter-ror pulled the car from the track and hurled it vio-iently against the gate, breaking it, and thus furnished a way of escape. An instant later the train swept by, grazing the rear platform of the car. Of the four women in the car, Mrs. Charies Tucker fainted and was still confined to her bed yesterday.

A SEVENTIETH WEDDING ANNIVERSARY. John Tallman and wife, well-known residents of Tappan, Rockland County, celebrated the seventieth anniversary of their welding yesterday. The celebration was at the home of their son-in-law, Charles monthly meeting yesterday, and was addressed by W. Eradley, superintendent of the West Shore Railroad, and the affair was enjoyed by about 200 guests, in "The Methods of Realing in the Primary Grades of cluding children, grandchildren and great-grandchildren cluding children, grandchildren and great-grandchildren of the aged couple. Mr. Tailman is eighty-nine and his wife eighty-eight years old. The house was elaborately decorated with flowers. There was a fine display of wedding presents, among which was a pair of elegantly upholsiered chairs from employes of the West Shore road. A supper was served, and speeches were made. No other celebration of the kind is remembered in the county.

LITTLE ANNIE GREEN TOLD FIBS. Annie Green, the thirteen-year-old girl who said she had been assaulted and robbed of about $60 on Wednesday night last near her father's house at Kearny, N. J., confessed yesterday that her story was a fabrication. She says she spent a portion of the money in Newark, buying a watch and chain, cloak, e.c., and with the remainder went to New-York and secured a room in a hotel. Getting scared in the botel dining room by some men, she left and took a train for Harrison, N. J. Arriving there, she threw her purchases under the culvert at the Eric Rail road bridge, then wet her clothes thoroughly in a brook and in that cond ton went to her father's house and lay down in the yard where she was found. The cloak has been recovered by the police, but not the watch and chain.

JERSEY CITY. The suit of Harris Feinberg against the Delaware Lackawanna and Western Railroad, for $2,000 for the loss of a consignment of cows, which were frozen to death during the blizzard of March, 1888, while in transit from Euffalo to Jersey City, was decided in the Circuit Court yesterday, the jury giving the plaintiff a verdict for the full amount.

NEWARK. Edward L. Conklin, the newly appointed postmaster, received his commission from Washington on sunday. Yesterday he was formally introduced to his subordinates. He paid a compliment to his predecessor, and said be did not contemplate making any immediate changes.

THEY WERE TELEPHONE WIRES.

NEW LIGHT ON THE FEERS CASE-WHERE WAS THE CONTACT!

The most important fact developed the inquest in the case of John E. H. Feeks, the lineman who was killed by an electric current, were that the four wires that burned into his hand, foot neck and face belonged to the Metropolitan Telephone Company. It had been thought that it was a Gold and Stock Telegraph Company's wire that had given him the fatal shock.

The first witness whom Coroner Louis W. Schultze called when the hearing was begun in the City Hall at 11 a. m. yesterday, was J. W. Darragh, a foreman of the Western Union Company, who said that he had made a careful examination of the telegraph and telephone wires leading from the pole on which Feelis was killed and found that in some places they were only eight or ten inches from electric light wires. At one spot he discovered a piece of telephone wire hanging down over an electric light wire; but the insulation of the latter had not been worn out, so the contact could not have caused Feeks's death. Some of the electric light wires were badly insulated, one of them having four bare spots on it within a space of twelve feet.

F. W. Baldwin, wire chief, and Oscar A. Brown, chief engineer of the Western Union Company, gave unimportant testimony, and Charles S. H. Small, assistant superintendent, and George E. Scott, foreman, of the Gold and Stock Telegraph Company, the next witnesses, said that their company had not a single wire on the pole on which the accident oc-curred. The general manager of the Metropolitan Telephone Company, W. H. Eckert, recognized the wire which gave Feeks the first shock as one belonging to his company. This statement was corrobo-rated by his account of how just at the time that Feeks was killed, the annunclators or magneto bells of four of the wires leading into the Murray-st. exchange of his company were burned out. Men were sent out at once to find out where the wires were crossed with an electric light wire, for they know hat no other current could have had such an effect, but they were unable to discover the point of contact. Mr. Eckert thought that an electric light wire had crossed four of the telephone wires, and that the consequence of the leakage and sent men out at once to break the contact. The witness said that his company's wires might have been charged by Fecks's body, but thought this highly improbable. E. F. sherwood, James Fagan and John A. Helvin, who are also employed by the Metropolitan Telephone Company, testified to the same effect.

Samuel H. Murphy was called to tell how the telephone at No. 470 Fearl-st., was burned out at the exact time that Feels was killed. The inquest will go on to-morrow at 11 a. m.

Judge Andrews, in the Supreme Court, Chambers, yesteriay called the counsel in the electric light cases, yesteriay called the counsel in the electric light cases before him and asked them to amend the briefs which were handed up to him on saturday. The different copies of the resolution passed by the Board of Electrical Control on October 9 did not agree and the Judge asked for a certified copy of the resolution.

Mayor Grant received yesterday $100 for the family of Lineman Feeks and $20 for that of Lineman Erdman. company owning the electric light wires had dis-

THE POLISH PROFESSOR ACQUITTED.

HE WAS ACCUSED OF STEALING MISS ANNIE BROWN'S POCKETBOOK IN THE EQUI-TABLE BUILDING.

Miss Annie Brown, of No. 715 Fifth-ave., the principal of a fashionable private school, was the victim of a bold robbery at the Equitable Building on September 3, and Judge Cowing and a jury listened yesterday to the evidence for and against the man whom she accuses of robbing her. He was not an ordinary criminal, but a well-dressed and intelligent professor of languages, who had been in this city only a few days when the robbery took mans. His homes as tuninases Bort-klewitch, and he is, according to the statement of his counsel, a descendant of some of the Pelish kings.

Miss Brown testified yesterday that she had visited the office of August Belmont & Co. in the Nassau'st. extension of the Equitable Building, and was going down the steps of the office when her packerbook was snatched from her hand. She recognizes as her assailant a man whom she had passed near the door. She cried out "Thief, thief," and followed the man through some of the halls of the building. Clerks ran out of the banking offices in the building and pursued the thief Miss Brown lost sight of him, but when Bortkie was taken before her in the custody of Officer Lewis, she recognized him as the thief.

The defendant, at the respect of Assistant District Attorney Forster, arose at the trial yesterday, and, Miss Brown said positively "That is the man who snatched the pocketbook." She said on cross-examination that the defendant wore no spectacles when he made the assault. He had no heard, but looked exactly as he appeared on the trial. He had no cause in his hand and no overcoas on his arm. Air. Perry, an employed in the Equitable Building, James Wilson, an engineer and Lester Lewis, a special officer, testified that they aw the defendant immediately after the robbery rush own the stairs in the Equitable Emilding to t cade floor. Mr. Wilson noticed that the defendant work pectacles, and Officer Lewis testified that he wore a

Solomon Kohn, of No. 181 Broadway, who had become greatly interested in the case through sympathy for Bortkiewitch, appeared as his counsel, and made for Bortkiewitch, appeared as his counsel, and made eloquent addresses in his behalf. The defendant was the main witness in his own behalf. He has long hair, a builging forehead and the appearance of a sindious man. His eyes were concealed by darkened speciacles. He spoke rapilly and with a strong foreign accent, but used the English words correctly. He said that he was educated at a university $1 kalish, Poland, was for a time an officer in the Russian Army, and in 1881 became a professor of languages in Paris. He said that he came to this city hoping to get employment in some capacity in gonnection with the world's Pair a flight of stairs and stood on the top step instone cleareste when some man rushed out of a deorway and cleareste when some man rushed out of a deorway and ran against him so rudely that the defendant was brushed down the stairway. His hat was knocked of and his spectacles fell of afterward. He denied that he saw Miss Brown or stole her pocketoook. Several witness testified to the defendant's good character, Judge Cowing recalled Miss Brown and she reiterated ber testimeny that the defendant wor no spectacles and her to chin beard when the robters was committed, bear no chin beard when the robters was committed, but no chin beard when the robters was committed of not guilty. There was a nurmur of applause from the guilty. There was a nurmur of applause from the HIGHWAY ROBBERY IS COMMON NOWADAYS. John Sattlemeyer, living at No. 23 Patterson-st ewark, came to this city on Sunday on a visit is brother, who lives in Elizabeth-st. o'clock yesterday morning he started for his home and had reached the junction of Mott and Hester star, when he was attacked and knocked from by two men who robbed him of his gold watch, valued at $50. Officer Farrell, of the Mulberry-st. station, hearing Sattlemeyer's screams for help, ran up in tin ing Sattlemeyer's screams for help, ran up in time to see one of the men dart into the dourway of No. 129 Mulberry-st. The officer pursued the man upstairs to the roof of the house and after an exciting chase succeeded in capturing him. The man's hame is william Thompson, lodging at No. 100 liberry Sattlemeyer's watch and chain dropped from the prisoner's pecket on the way to the station. Judge O'Reilly yesterday lock him for trial in $2,500 ball and sent Sattlemeyer to the House of Detention.

"The Bible in the Public Schools" was the title of paper read at the weekly meeting of the Baptist largymen in the Twenty-third Street Baptist Church The paper was by the Rev. A. K. Gesseler assistant at Grace Church. It held that the Pible should be taught in all schools under the jurisdiction of the Government. The paper provoked a lively dis-cussion. Those present seemed to be divided in their entiments on the subject. Some held that the Bit bould be secondary in public education, while other related that secular education in the public school as not advisable. Among those who expressed the
